SOLDIER PRESIDENTS—

By all the ordinary rules of politics General Sheridan will be the next republican candidate, if Blaine has irrevocably withdrawn from the contest. The very general and enthusiastic way in which Sheridan's name was put forward as a candidate for the presidency in case of Blaine's withdrawal shows a strong undercurrent in his favor. Conkling, Depew, Boutwell and others representing entirely different sections in the republican party all declared for him. Monday there was practically no candidate against Blaine. When such a strong candidate withdraws, there is usually great confusion. The exhibition of such an immediate tendency to concentrate on one man was remarkable and would have insured his nomination had the convention been in session. The convention is still a good way off and this is an element of uncertainty. His splendid military career would make him immensely popular as a candidate. If the nomination is to be given for the value of services rendered, no living man deserves it more. The only serious objection that will be raised to his nomination will be his want of experience in civil life. But this objection has never been considered a very strong one in presidential contests. There has been a strong tendency to hero worship in this country, and this hero worship has usually been called forth by military services. Washington, Jackson, Harrison, Taylor, Scott, Fremont, Grant, Hancock and Garfield were all so nominated for military services. None of them had any experience in civil life, except possibly Washington. But to answer the objection we have spoken of above. All run well as compared. No one of them was put before the people without want of experience in civil life. Those who were not elected failed because of the prestige behind them. McClellan and Hancock were nominated by a party that largely in the field of office at home in the north opposed their gallant defense on the field of battle. Scott failed because nominated by a party that was breaking to pieces and could not concentrate its vote on any one candidate. The free soil movement was already under way. Fremont was nominated in the first candidate of a party yet in its swaddling clothes, and victory was impossible. No civilian could have won in any of these cases when the soldiers were defeated. The soldiers who were elected made remarkable runs, particularly in the case of Harrison, Taylor and Grant. No one of them elected was a conspicuous failure as president, and some of them gave us the wisest and strongest administrations we have ever had. It cannot be said, therefore, that experience warns us not to put a soldier without civil experience in the presidential chair, and experience tells us emphatically that a soldier is the most popular candidate that can be named.

One argument in favor of Sheridan's candidacy and election will be very strong with the soldier element. The republican party has worried very much lately about the way the democratic administration has been treating the soldier. But looking at the biographies of congressmen in the congressional directory we find that the republican party in selecting its congressmen has not been very partial to the soldier element. This is in marked contrast to the South which honors her "brigadiers." Take two states. Virginia in the two houses has twelve representatives. Of these four are democrats, six are republicans, one labor reformer and one independent democrat. Yet ten of these served in the rebel army in position from private to general. The two who were not in the rebel army were not, simply because they were less than ten years of age when the war broke out. Massachusetts has fourteen representatives in both houses. Of these ten are republicans and four are democrats. Of the fourteen only one was in the army and one was assistant paymaster in the navy. This record does not compare favorably with that of Virginia for gratitude, or else it means that the only men competent to be statesmen stayed at home in the north and went to battle in the south. Whatever be the explanation, this fact will be a powerful argument on the stump this fall.

STATE NEWS.

Last season a Denver factory canned 6600 quarts of strawberries.

Trinidad will be lighted with electricity inside of the next sixty days.

The trial of Mrs. Witter, of Denver, for the murder of her husband, will occur on the 27th.

Track laying has begun on the Aspen & Western from Carbondale up Thomson creek. The length of the road will be about twenty-five miles, and will connect with valuable marble and coal beds in that vicinity.

Judge Rucker, of Aspen, has sentenced John R. Krague to be hanged on February 17, 1888, for the murder of J. J. Hart. The execution will be strictly private and is the first sentence of death in that section of the state.

A gentleman in the western part of the state has started a bee agency near Grand Junction. In the opinion of the Montrose Messenger this is just the beginning of a great industry which will shortly have a strong footing among the ranchmen of the reservation.

THE GIRLS MUST GO.

[illegible]

Adelbert college is located at Cleveland, O. It has long been a shining example of the co education of the sexes.

Early this year Rev. Hiram C. Haydn was made president of the institution. He is opposed to co education, and the edict has gone forth that "The girls must go."

Not in the literal sense, for the young women who are already students at the institution will be allowed to finish their studies and receive the honor of graduation from the institution. But the days of co education at Adelbert college are at an end, and no more female students will be received within its portals.

This action on the part of the college trustees has aroused peculiar interest in Dr. Haydn and his record. He was born in Pompey, N. Y., in 1831, studied in Amherst college in 1853-6, then in the Union Theological seminary until 1859; was ordained in West Meriden, Conn., in 1862, preached four years in St. Johnsbury, Vt.; went to Painesville, O., then journeyed in Palestine, was pastor of the Pilgrim church in St. Louis, then associate pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Cleveland, succeeded on the death of Dr. Goodrich to the pastorate, which he resigned to accept the district secretaryship of the American Board of Foreign Missions, with headquarters in New York, which he left in 1884 to return to the First church in Cleveland. He will be pastor and president too.

It should be added that the trustees are in full sympathy with Dr. Haydn, and that they propose to establish an institution for the higher education of women, which shall be conducted, as Adelbert college is, under the supervision of the Western Reserve university. They say in their announcement that they do not wish to be understood as condemning the association of sexes in any college, but they are satisfied that the work of co education in the institution is a hindrance to its higher success. In order [illegible] young men, and thus [illegible] for which it was [illegible] [illegible] proposed to [illegible] by giving with it work for the young women of [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] to take such steps as shall [illegible] to him [illegible] to establish a school [illegible] young women.

LOUISE MICHEL.

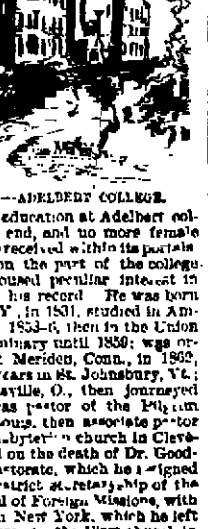
[illegible] the Anarchists of northern France had a big meeting at Paris the other day, and Louise Michel's name was cheered off.

She also read a long and [illegible] in the hard and French accents of the affair have like a blood and thunder burlesque.

The question of property had a [illegible]. They denounced all law and all property holders.

Louise Michel herself made a speech, declaring that the woman was as good as another, and ought to have as many good things. A disciple, a working-man named Lucas, proved that the Jesuits [illegible] things; he wished [illegible] he drew a pistol and deprived Louise of her [illegible].

This is the girl of the merry Frenchmen's explanation. It may be presumed that Workman Lucas was aiming at the other party when he wounded her in the head.



LOUISE MICHEL.

Louise Michel is a great figure in France. She is of the same class as were Spies, Parsons and Schwab in America, a product of social disease. Wealth is concentrating in a few hands, the power of capital is immense, hence the Anarchists.

She was born in 1833 in the province of Haute Marne, and educated partly by the Sisters of Mercy and partly by her Voltairean grandparents; so she vibrated long between Christianity and atheism, finally becoming an agnostic and a Socialist. She taught school and avowed an intention to kill the emperor; she rolled devotedly in a hospital and taught her patients to hate the government; she wrote popular stories, glorified the ancient regicides and decried the rulers of France. When the empire was overthrown she joined the commune and fought with a musket, for which she was exiled with Rochefort and others to New Caledonia. There she taught children and nursed the sick. They were all pardoned in due time, but not long afterward she was condemned to six years' imprisonment for inciting rebellion. M. Grevy began his term by pardoning her, with most of the political offenders; she refused to leave St. Lazare because all were not pardoned, and they had to expel her by force from the prison. She then became a regular apostle of anarchy, but the new government in France is now so well established that it can afford to ignore her.

She has sent the bullet with which she was shot to Rochefort.

The Best Plan.

Foreman—In what column shall I put the account of the man who fell and broke his backbone?

Editor (busy writing a leader)—Spinal column, of course.—Harper's Bazar.

The Pope's Irish Policy.

ROME, February 8.—The pope has requested Cardinal Simeoni to advise Irish bishops to preach to the people of Ireland respect for the laws and to maintain a calm, prudent line of conduct. The pope also announced his intention to send to Ireland a permanent apostolic legate.

The Queen's Speech.

LONDON, February 8.—The "queen's speech" was read at the ministerial banquet this evening. After congratulating the country upon pacific foreign relations it announces the intention of the government to introduce a bill declaring squares and thoroughfares unsuitable for public gatherings, a bill of broad scope dealing with Irish land valuation and an English local covering out bill. The speech expresses satisfaction at the decision of crime and the improved social condition in Ireland. Other measures are announced.

The speech does not refer to the European crisis. Reference to foreign relations is devoted chiefly to the Afghan boundary settlement and sugar bounties conference. The speech promises that attention shall be given to questions regarding coaling stations and docks at home and in the colonies, announces that parliament will be asked to receive an estimate of expenses connected with the Australian squadron. A cabinet council will be summoned for Friday.

Gompers at Denver.

DENVER, February 8.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, arrived from Kansas City this morning. He was received at the depot by a committee of the trades assembly and shown the city. He will deliver a lecture to-morrow night at the Mammoth rink on "Organization," at which both Governor Adams and Mayor Lee will be present.

An Insubordinate Sexton.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., February 8.—It has been found necessary to discharge the colored sexton of the Walnut Street Presbyterian church in this city, on the ground that he had fitted up the church tower as a poker room and even so far forgot himself as to indulge with his friends in the enticing game while the congregation was at worship in the church below.

B. & O. Stock.

BALTIMORE, February 8.—Sixty shares of Baltimore and Ohio railway stock sold to day at 93. This is the lowest figure reached for a number of years and is said to result from the probability that the road may not declare a dividend for several years to come. It is thought the shares will go still lower.

Colorado Irrigation.

DENVER, February 8.—The Farmers' Protective association met here to day and drafted resolutions which will be forwarded to Washington, asking congress to authorize a survey of the arid lands of Colorado for reservoirs for irrigation purposes and also compute the approximate cost of the construction of the same.

Bad News from San Remo.

SAN REMO, February 8.—The crown prince experiences difficulty in breathing. It is reported the doctors have resolved to resort to tracheotomy immediately, as further delay might result in suffocation.

Death of Mrs. Rothacker.

OMAHA, Neb., February 8.—Mrs. C. H. Rothacker, daughter of the late S. P. Rounds, a prominent pioneer, died in this city shortly after 9 o'clock this morning of brain fever.

Nasby Dying.

TOLEDO, Ohio, February 8.—It is thought D. R. Locke (Petroleum V. Nasby) will not live more than 24 hours. His disease is consumption.

TELEGRAPH BREVITIES.

The military bill was read the third time in the reichstag yesterday and passed on blue.

Jack Knifton has challenged Sullivan to fight with gloves or fists after the Mitchell affair.

Indications for Colorado—Light snow, colder, light to fresh northerly winds becoming variable.

Patrick O'Brien, M. P., was sentenced to three months imprisonment for inciting tenants not to pay rent.

Henry Mann, a private banker of Galt, Ont., was murdered yesterday by John Currie, who then committed suicide.

Gladstone arrived at Dover yesterday afternoon. He received a most enthusiastic greeting from a large crowd that had gathered to meet him.

Lieutenant Brainard, survivor of the Greeley Arctic expedition, was married Tuesday night at Walla Walla, to Miss Anna, daughter of Hon. H. M. Chase.

M. Wilson has been summoned to appear before the correctional tribunal on February 16 to answer charges connected with the decoration of M. Legrand and M. Crestin.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, speaking at London last night, said he thought power should be given to the speaker of the commons to suspend disorderly members for the remainder of the session. He objects to pure cloture.

Mrs. Edna Hill Gray Dow, of the Dover, N. H., Street-Railroad Company.

(Special Correspondence.)

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—When the stockholders of the Dover, N. H., horse railroad met one evening during the present month to elect a president and board of directors, they little thought that for the ensuing year drivers, conductors, clerks, superintendent and officers would look to a woman for orders. Mrs. Edna Hill Gray Dow, a middle aged lady and the wife of Dr. Dow, is the woman who will give the orders, and her husband, the treasurer of the company, is one of the persons who will obey.

The road which has furnished an outlet for the manipulating skill of this woman or rather anti-monopolist, for such she has shown herself, is only two miles long, but it runs through the heart of Dover, and the citizens are interested in having it well managed. Mrs. Dow originally owned but little of the stock. She found a few months ago that a syndicate from this city was trying to buy up the stock. In fact, she soon had conclusive evidence that such was the case, when this syndicate had the effrontery to offer her $17 per share for stock for which she had paid $70. This set Mrs. Dow to thinking. If these men could buy up the stock for $17 per share, and make it pay, to do so why should she not do the same?

PRESIDENT DOW.

Mrs. Dow began her manipulations by defeating two directors of the road. At a special meeting of the stockholders she had [illegible] to vote the stock by proxy. This completed, the lady proceeded to buy up the shares until she had [illegible] possession of a majority of the stock. When it was complete she had no difficulty in electing a new board of directors, and Mrs. Dow became president, treasurer and clerk of the road. [illegible] Mrs. Dow [illegible] the road [illegible] Mr. Dow [illegible] the road

Mr. F. G. Rowe revises his list of properties this morning.

Read Mr. E. F. McCloskey's business locals this morning.

Mr. David F. Day, editor of the Solid Muldoon, made the city a brief visit yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Giddings left for Salt Lake City on Tuesday night. They will return next Sunday.

The fire department and Knights of Pythias, of Pueblo, will run an excursion to this city on the 18th inst.

The police magistrate fined a man $1 and costs yesterday for leaving his horse unhitched in the business part of the city.

We publish, this morning, at the head of the local column a possible bulletin which gives the arrival and departure of the mails.

Mr. W. H. Boby advertises Santa Fe Canon coal for sale in another column. He says he will have alum lime from this time on.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Sibley, of Rochester, New York, are stopping at the Antlers. Mr. Sibley is a prominent wholesale dry goods merchant of that city.

It is stated that since the lots in West Colorado Springs were put upon the market that over $[illegible] worth have been sold. The demand for lots is still quite active.

Mr. C. J. Dunn, who is at present operating a saw mill on West Creek near Florissant, says he is expected to deliver 800,000 feet of lumber in that city. This lumber will be hauled by teams down through the Ute pass.

Mr. Alvin Stump of Colorado City has leased his saw mill near Florissant to Messrs. O'Rourke and Scott until next June. When the lease expires he expects to operate the mill himself in the vicinity of Manitou park.

On Tuesday evening about half past ten o'clock the coal house and chicken house on the premises of Mr. George J. Baird on South Nevada were burned. The fire was discovered by the neighbors who succeeded in extinguishing it without calling upon the fire department. The loss was very small.

There will be a regular meeting of Pike's Peak lodge, No. 39, I. O. O. F., this evening at 7.30 o'clock. There will be work in the initiatory degree and other business of interest to the lodge. A full attendance is desired and all visiting brothers are cordially invited to attend. The degree staff are requested to be present at seven o'clock.

Several citizens have severely criticized the action of the city council in approving a contract with the El Paso Electric company for furnishing the city with thirty or more electric street lights for five years at $150 per light per annum. They stated that in the course of the next few years the cost of this quality of light would be greatly cheapened, and if this contract was put in force the city would be unable to profit by a reduction in the cost of the light.

City Engineer H. I. Reid has surveyed and platted a new town for Mr. W. B. Jenkins on Cheyenne creek, south of the city. The town will be called Ivywild and embraces about 30 acres which have been surveyed and platted into 200 lots, several of which have already been sold. Ivywild is only half a mile from the city limits and it is Mr. Jenkins' intention to construct a boulevard through it, leaving the Colorado Springs road near Mr. Albert Mathews' residence and joining the Cheyenne canon road near Colonel J. H. Bacon's residence.

The entertainment which will be given at the Congregational church to-morrow evening entitled, "The Crowning of the Queen of Fame," under the auspices of the Christian church of this city, will be well worth witnessing. It will be given by a number of ladies from Pueblo, who recently gave the same performance in that city with marked success. An excursion will be run from Pueblo to-morrow afternoon, returning after the entertainment, and a number of people from that city will undoubtedly be present. The characters represented will all appear in costume, and nothing will be left undone to make the entertainment a success.

The entertainment of the young people in aid of the parsonage fund at the First Baptist church, this evening, bids fair to be of special interest. In addition to songs by boys from the Deaf Mute and Blind institute and college glees by a male quartette, much amusement is expected from the grand sewing match of [illegible]. An extra attraction is an art gallery full of views, portraits and sketches of world-wide renown, together with a large number of local views prepared for the occasion. Ice cream and cake furnished to all who desire them. Admission to the entertainment 10 cents. Art gallery and refreshments extra.

The map of the city of Colorado Springs which City Engineer, H. I. Reid has had in course of preparation for several weeks past has been published, and orders for the map can now be filled. It is the most complete map of the city which has ever been published. It has been compiled from the official surveys and records and the lithographing is of the best. The map shows the location of every house in the city, gives the names of all the additions and subdivisions, together with the lines of railroad and street railway. The course of the water mains, gas mains, and the location of the fire plugs are shown. In fact nothing is omitted which properly belongs to a map of this character. It will be invaluable to property owners and business men. It is mounted on durable rollers, and is about three feet in width by five feet in length. Mr. Reid has spared no pains or labor to furnish a map for which at present there is such a need.

Work was temporarily suspended on the Pike's Peak avenue line of the Colorado Springs and Manitou Street railway yesterday on account of the supply of ties on hand having been exhausted. A force of men was, however, put to work laying track, and late yesterday afternoon about a block and a half had been covered. The company are now negotiating with three different parties for furnishing the necessary number of ties to build the road. The party which can deliver the ties in the shortest time will be awarded the contract. The company have also ordered over eighty tons of rails from the Colorado Coal and Iron company, and it is thought that a car load of rails will be delivered daily until the order is filled. If the weather permits the road will be completed to Colorado City at the earliest possible date, though under the ordinance granted by the town board of Colorado City the company are given until July 1st to complete the road.

MARRIED.
